Digital Detection: Using Technology to Understand and Respond to Corruption

Tuesday, May 21, 2024 8:00 AM EDT

Register to Attend

CEPPS partners IRI and CIPE will present on the interim findings of a DEPP Technical Leadership Project titled "Identifying Successful Collective Action Approaches Against Kleptocracy". The project explored the factors that contributed to the success or failure of collective action efforts to fight kleptocratic capture.

Presenters

Richard Nash

Senior Global Advisor for Anti-Corruption, IFES

Richard is the Senior Anti-Corruption Advisor and Director for IFES' Center for Anti-Corruption and Democratic Trust. Richard supports colleagues around the world in building accountable and independent institutions that support the rule of law and resist corruption.

Dr. Brigitte Seim

Principal Investigator, V-Dem

Brigitte is a scholar of comparative politics. Her research examines the relationship between citizens and political officials, with a particular emphasis on accountability in developing democracies. She is an Associate Professor of Public Policy and Peter Thacher Grauer Scholar in Honors at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. She is also Project Manager of Experiments for the Varieties of Democracy (V-Dem) Project and a founding Principal Investigator of the Digital Society Project.

Dr. Diego Romero

Consultant, DevLab@Penn and Assistant Professor, Utah State University

Diego is an assistant professor in the Department of Political Science at Utah State University. His research interests include issues of governance, in particular corruption and accountability, and the interface between civil society, democratic backsliding, and digital media.

Digital Detection: Using Technology to Understand and Respond to Corruption

Chris Wild

Director, Global Democracy Programs, Internews

Chris oversees a portfolio of global Internews programming in the Democracy, Human Rights, and Governance sector that strengthens independent media, advances freedom of expression, and increases access to information. Previously at Internews, Chris was Senior Director, Global Development as well as Country Director for Ukraine.

Frank Brown

Director of the Anti-Corruption & Governance Center, CIPE

Frank is the Director of the Anti-Corruption & Governance Center at the Center for International Private Enterprise. He developed its Anti-Corruption Rapid Response program - which swiftly deploys resources to support civil society activists in countries that are experiencing unique opportunities for reform; and its Integrated Compliance program - which takes a holistic approach to corporate compliance by examining how labor and environmental standards can be upheld in tandem with anti-corruption requirements.

Dr. Ross Hammond

Director, Center on Social Dynamics and Policy & Senior Fellow, Economic Studies, The Brookings Institution

Ross is a senior fellow in Economic Studies at the Brookings Institution, where he is director of the Center on Social Dynamics and Policy. His primary area of expertise is modeling complex dynamics in economic, social, and public health systems using mathematical and computational methods from complexity systems science.

This event will be moderated by CIPE's Kim Bettcher and will feature a discussion with USAID's Amy Selzer, IRI's Eguar Lizundia, and ABA ROLI's Lemarque Campell.
